

LMQ-GTr-04 Course Outline

Category:	General Courses
Title:	Awareness and Understanding of ISO 31000: 2009- Risk Management – Principles and Guidelines
Target Group:	Personnel of conformity assessment and accreditation bodies
Duration:	3 days
Key Subjects Covered:	This course aims at exposing the targeted trainees to the key concepts of risk management, elements of the risk management cycle, types of risks, identifying risk impact and probability, and measures for responding to internal and external risks. These principles will be applied to the context of planning by identifying the types of internal and external risks that decision makers and project managers might encounter. This should also be translated into the applications of risk management as the basis upon which project targets are set and plans are built. As per best practices, priorities of resource allocations should be focused on the projects that are likely to pose the highest harm to the public.
Course Structure:	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Interactive and requires class participation both as individuals and in teams.• Consists of exercises, case studies, syndicate work, presentations and practical training.
Fees Per participant in AED	3000